'Black Diamond' is definitely one of the books that you will always remember. Zakes Mda never seems to amaze me, his authentic use of language is inspiring, completely reminiscent of the current South Africa. You pick up his books and somehow you feel like you are thrown into the multicultural and multilingual South African universe.

Black Diamond ’s plot acts as the mannequin to hold up the relationships among race, class, and capitalism in the new South Africa that Mda boldly unpacks. Unlike many Apartheid novels that stick to one location or group, Black Diamond depicts a South Africa where every group is present and no powerful white man is in sight.

~~Black Diamond - Zakes Mda | Full Stop~~

In Black Diamond, Mda tackles every conceivable South African stereotype, skillfully turning them upside down and exposing their ironies—often hilariously. This is a clever, quirky novel, in which Mda captures the essence of contemporary life in a fast-changing urban world. ‘ A vibrant portrait of South Africa today.’

Don Mateza, hero of Zakes Mda's latest novel, Black Diamond (Penguin South Africa), is a man who still cooks. Not merely because he doesn't have a wife. Cooking is one of the defiant little gestures Mateza makes to stay an ordinary man, when all around him are clawing their way to the top of the capitalist dung heap.
