If the soul is immortal, did it have a "life" before your birth? Much has been written, and many anecdotes recorded, of the near-death experience (NDE). People who have been declared dead and then revived sometimes report an experience of being on another plane of existence, often meeting deceased relatives and beings of light.

Where Was Your Spirit Before You Were Born?

I believe that each of us exists before we are born on earth. As an ex-pharmaceutical scientist, that might be a bit much for my former colleagues to take, but I absolutely mean it. Each of us is pure consciousness, currently focused in a physical dimension.

Did You Exist Before You Were Born? by David R. Hamilton ...

The pre birth experience seems to remember the plane of existence that they were on just before they were born. This is similar to near death experiences, or NDE. The patient who is near death will feel themselves 'slipping away' to another realm. Sometimes they can see friends or relatives who have gone before them.

No one knows what it is like before or after death, but logically, after you die will be like before you were born. In other words, although no one knows what it is like to be dead (outside of those who have been brought back quickly and talk about white lights and such), but we all technically have experienced not being born yet.

Nobody knows the answer to this question, but I think that the most logical answer is that it feels just like before you were born. "You" do not exist, in the sense that there is no consciousness to experience. After death, consciousness ceases. I know it is a dry and boring explanation, but what do you all think?
