Collectable Bus and Coach Ticket Machines. As smart ticketing and contactless payment rolls out across the country, collectable bus and coach machines have become popular among those yearning for a piece of old-fashioned technology and public transport nostalgia. Old machines in carry cases with harnesses, which would have been worn by a bus conductor, early electronic machines, which would have been first used in the 1980s and more up-to-date digital machines are all collectable by those ...

If the machine detects more than one card it will beep and tell the driver that more than one card has been detected. You’ll then be asked to present only one card. If you have a valid key card or concessionary travel card in the same holder as your contactless card, the ticket machine may read the key card or concessionary card first.
