It did so by downloading six “killer apps” from the West. Those killer apps are institutional ideas that the West cultivated and embraced to promote wealth, stability and innovation: political and economic competition, the scientific revolution, the rule of law, modern medicine, education and the work ethic. But now those apps are no longer monopolized by the West, Ferguson said.

Ferguson's thesis: there are six killer apps and a civilization needs these in order to be dominant. The killer apps are competition, science, technology, medicine, consumption and work. Ferguson devotes a chapter to each. His chapters on competition, science and technology are well-organized and support his thesis quite well.
