CLAIMED BY THE WARRIOR is the third installment (and re-release) in Savannah Stuart's (aka Katie Reus) adult, sci-fi Lumineta futuristic romance novella series. This is Lumineta clan leader Con, and human architect Leilani's storyline. CLAIMED BY THE WARRIOR can be read as a stand alone without any difficulty.

Eliza Knight's "Claimed by the Warrior" is the third in The Conquered Bride series, but you can read it as a standalone. This series is apparently a spin-off of the Stolen Brides series, but I haven't read that series and you can understand these just fine without reading that series.

Claimed by the Warrior is a short, sexy story that can be read as a standalone. Leilani was a survivor from Earth. Her job at Lumineta required her to travel to the remote mountains to help design new facilities for the warrior clan there. When the male warriors found out she was not mated, they went berserk. One of them even called 'Ducereco Law.'

Even if it went against all his warrior instincts to demand answers and to demand that she quit her job and stay home. It wouldn't make her happy and he knew it was simply a protective thing anyway. He had no desire to annoy or stifle his mate. She might be small in stature but her temper was that of a full-grown Luminet warrior sometimes.
