Domenico Starnone, Ties (translated by Jhumpa Lahiri, 2017). Philomila Tsoukala “ Happy families are all alike; every unhappy family is unhappy in its own way. ” (Come on, you know who said this) Family law, in the limited way we have construed it over the last eighty years or so, deals almost entirely in unhappy families.<sup>1</sup> When the law comes in it is separation, divorce, or restraining order ...

The nuclear family system is the most common face of families in Canada, but when cultural and ethnicity is added, the faces of the nuclear family can also change. With Canadian first nations, the extended family system is vital, with grandmothers and grandfathers often the primary caregivers of the children, even with both parents present within the household.
