In Thank You for Arguing, Jay Heinrichs endeavors to show why the lost art of rhetoric—the study of argument and persuasion—can help people understand the world, help them succeed, and generally improve their lives. In Part One, “Offense,” Heinrichs lays out the basics of arguing. Every argument has three basic steps: first, stimulating the audience’s emotions, second, changing the audience’s opinion, and third, getting the audience to do or choose something.

Thank You For Arguing Chapter 1: “I achieved the height of persuasion: not just an agreement, but one that gets an audience—a teenaged one at that—to do my bidding.” Pg. 4 “A sarcastic voice answers from the other side of the door. “That’s not the point, is it, Dad?”. Pg. 3 Persuasion is key to winning an argument even if it is to win through pettiness.
