Central bank intervention and a retreat of more apocalyptic narratives on Covid-19 can be credited for the FTSE All-Share rallying around 28 per cent from its March low. Investors in shares have had a reprieve, but a genuine recovery depends on the real economy, which is vulnerable to a dreaded second wave reigniting the fear factor.

Defusing the debt bomb - Investors Chronicle

The Debt Bomb. Let me count the years we've been told economic Armageddon will be unleashed by a firestorm of debt. And that messaging will never stop. But maybe there's a more productive way of looking at this. Recessions most often come as a result of blow-off excesses.
