That fact alone makes The Mockingbird Next Door, a memoir by Chicago Tribune reporter Marja Mills about her friendship with the book's author, Harper Lee, a valuable artifact. It's also a thoughtful, sweet-tempered, witty piece of work . . . The Mockingbird Next Door offers a winning, nuanced portrait. Indeed, given Lee's deep privacy and advanced age, it seems unlikely we'll ever have a better record of a remarkable American life."

The Mockingbird Next Door: Life with Harper Lee I am grateful to have known them in what turned out to be the last chapter of life as they knew it. She went to dinner, drank morning coffee, watched football, The Mockingbird Next Door: Life with Harper Lee the ducks, and did laundry at the laundromat with Nelle for a blessed five years. Not really. I was very excited when I read advance press for this book. There are hints of a life of the mind.
