~~The Pillow Book is a book of observations and musings recorded by Sei Shōnagon during her time as court lady to Empress Consort Teishi during the 990s and early 1000s in Heian Japan. The book was completed in the year 1002. The work of Shōnagon consists of a collection of essays, anecdotes, poems, and descriptive passages that have little connection to one another except for the fact that they are ideas and whims of what Shōnagon was thinking of in any given moment in her daily life. In ...~~

~~The Pillow Book ends with a possible explanation of the diary’s origin: the courtier Korechika gave Empress Teishi a gift of a bundle of paper, which the Empress in turn gifts to Sei. Sei begins filling the book with those things she finds delightful or impressive, never intending it to be seen by others, she claims. When Provincial Governor Tsunefusa spots the book during a visit to Sei’s home, he takes it with him despite her protests. “That seems to have been the moment when this ...~~

~~The Pillow Book by Sei Shonagon Plot Summary | LitCharts~~

~~Sei Shonagon’s Pillow Book(Makura no Soshi) is the private journal of a lady-in-waiting to the Empress of Japan written during the 990’s. Sei served her empress during the late Heian Period (a particularly vibrant time for Japanese arts and the beginning of Japan’s feudal age) and was a contemporary of another lady-in-waiting, Murasaki Shikibu, author of the Tale of Genji (also in this anthology).~~

~~The Pillow Book of Sei Shonagon Translated by Ivan Morris~~

~~The Pillow Book is a diary composed by Sei Shōnagon, a young woman who served in the imperial court at Kyoto during Japan's Heian period. Specifically, Sei was a gentlewoman in the service of the Empress Teishi, from roughly the year 993 until 1000 C.E. Sei herself was born in an outlying province where her father served as a governor.~~
