I Am Having Negative Thoughts. An internal dialogue is absolutely normal and, in fact, is representative of an active and enquiring mind. When we are depressed or anxious however, our self-talk can change dramatically and can often become highly self-critical, or derogatory, so that we are exposed to a daily berating of ourselves.

I am inclined to agree with you that you are experiencing "compulsive thoughts" better know as "obsessions." Of course, I cannot be certain and that is why I want to encourage you to see a Clinical Psychologist for evaluation and treatment. However, let me continue: Intrusive thoughts or obsessions result from extreme anxiety.

1. Thinking can't replace action. I sometimes think there is some kind of wish when overthinking that thinking will somehow replace action. A wish that if you just think enough you can find some easy way out or get what you want without having to actually do something. Without taking action you'll most likely not get what you want.

I don't think age is as important as making sure you have achieved what you would like before having children. If everything goes to plan I am hoping to be pregnant this year at 27. I graduated with a professional degree at 22, bought a house at 23, got married at 25 so it feels the right time for me but that doesn't mean it would be right for everyone.
